The initial setup is simple. For example, if there are personal types of users who want to monitor. This is the kind of maintenance I do. Some customers will ask that only I will implement Symantec DLP. You are reading a free preview Pages 89 to 103 are not shown in this preview. Automatically block actions based on the risk level of an individual user with risk-adaptive data protection. We haven't used it yet. Replace broad and broad rules with personalized and adaptive data security that doesn't slow down your employees. The solution provides good data classifications. Usually, if we are doing it from scratch, every time we are doing the implementation, there will be a document that will be created for other servers. If new users are turned on, they will refer to the document. If we get a fatal error problem, if the agent does not work, we need a hard fix file. Every month we will send the policy to our clients asking if there is something they want to add, or any rule they want to delete, or anything specifically they want to create, and Cetera. It's flexible. If you need to purchase a full suite, you can purchase it or if you only want endpoint or cloud or network, you can purchase it as a separate command. For example, to set the password with the protector or as an admin password. We'll do the launch papers to the management team and transfer them to the local engineers. We can only modify particular agent configurations. A new feature I've seen is a device block, which is very interesting. I'm doing the implementation and agent upgrades part. I is that they will install Oracle on a server and the application also on a server and detection, all in a server. You are reading a free preview Pages 16 to 21 are not shown in preview. We need to check in pre-production machines. When we're doing data scanning, the machines can be slow. In the object capture recognition, which we implemented recently, there are a lot of false positives that have been happening. We used to delete the duplicate machines, or any machines supposed to be in stock or offline. We are expecting them to fix this issue soon. Block actions only where you need to, and drive productivity View and control all of your data with the industry's largest pre-defined policy library. A total of five hours to six hours is required in order to complete our implementation. The maintenance is contract-based. The pricing is moderate. Deploy data classification with Boldon James and Azure Information Protection. It's not the cheapest, or the most expensive. There are various types of licenses. For example, if you are a customer for endpoint prevention, that is a different license. We're still learning about it. Under the device control, there'll be a block device connections option. If the server crashes, everything crashes. Normally we will connect with other partners. Usually, we are service providers, so we'll take the project from Symantec and we will implement the approach for our business partners. Whenever any issues are reported, for example, a fatal error or multiple errors, or if any machines come up with a blue screen, et cetera, well look for patch releases. If that's the case, I can help clients troubleshoot them. What it will do now is, whenever you're working in the document, is it will ask you to determine the data. We are implementors. The customers will ask the contract to be for a year or Two years and we will do the analysis and relationships, which we must send on a daily basis, weekly and monthly base and quarterly base. We preferred at least one person. virtual automatic automatic. And for the server it is at least an hour. Initially we collect the registers of the requirements and chair them on the Symantec portal. They will push the package to all SCCM machines. Previously, we used to create a policy to block some data, which was transferred from our local mobile car. From these details, they will create a difficult correction file for us and implement it. Let's work well together. Follow the intellectual property (IP) both in structured and unstructured forms and interrupt the theft of low and slow data even when user devices are out of network. If requirements for the Oracle update we go on and do it. We'll go straight to the starting point and we'll stay there and we'll do the implementation and we'll create a policy, as per the requirements. At this point I used the solution for four and a half years. In addition to that, we are doing the installation of the agent and troubleshooting. In addition, we will be in touch with the SCCM team and give them parcels. It's part of our best practices. We recommend that someone be available by stacking somewhere. Things should be implemented on another server. Previously, when we had Dropbox, if we transferred a document, we would have a popup, and if we transferred 500 documents, we would have 500 popups. Now, we discovered that there will be another option called Agent Configuration Device Control. First, we would create a template and meet with several members of the project team. We will monitor, troubleshoot and remove agents if necessary. I'd rate it at ten out of ten. We'll do whatever they tell us. Maybe an agent will be damaged, or a computer will be restarted several times.Initially, we'll check the records.
